

You have defined the vision and values for your life and, in doing so, laid the foundation from which to set long-term and short-term goals. You can now consistently measure the most effective use of your time, talents, and energies against a written constitution based on your principles.

My Mission Statement

My mission is to take care of my health, learn and improve every day, and achieve financial freedom, always being there for the people who matter to me.)

Character

Character is a composite of your habits. "Sow a thought, reap an action; sow an action, reap a habit; sow a habit, reap a character; sow a character, reap a destiny." Character, in the context of your personal mission statement, is what you want to be.

Character:

I will be a person who:

If I were celebrating my 80th birthday, Aroa, Ilyas, Laia, Jerson, Napi and Pau would be with me. They would say it was a good life, and they would describe me as quiet.

Passion:

What do I really love to do at work?

I really enjoy learning and developing my skills.

What do I really love to do in my personal life?

Playing, socializing, learning, exploring, etc.

Imagination

If I had unlimited time and resources, and knew I could not fail, what would I choose to do? I would:

I'd like to learn how to ski.

Vision

My life's journey is...

My journey is to learn and improve every day without giving up, to achieve financial freedom and a life where I can enjoy what I love.

Contributions & Achievements

By focusing on the unique contribution that is yours to make, you can become principle-centered. You may get satisfaction from past accomplishments, but the next great contribution is always on the horizon. You have relationships to build, a community to serve, a family to strengthen, problems to solve, knowledge to gain, and great works to create.

Contribution:

What do I consider to be my most important future contribution to the most important people in my life?

That I'm there for them when they're going through a hard time.

Talents:

My natural talents and gifts are:

I'm very persistent. Even when things don't come easily to me, I like to keep going despite everything.

Performance:

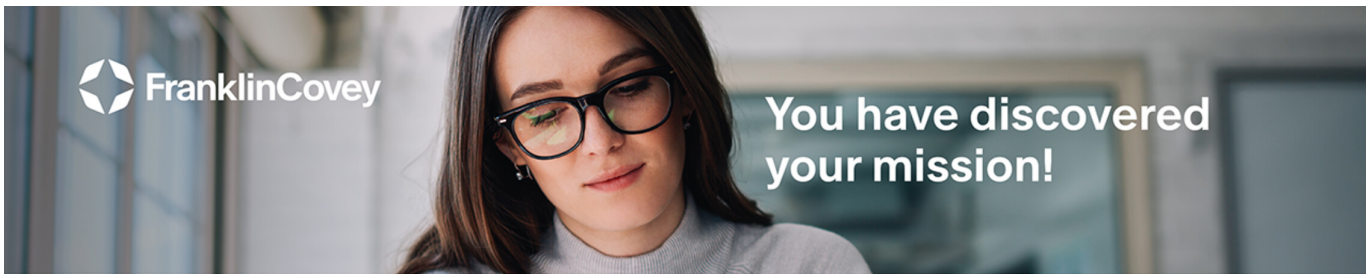

I am at my best when...

When I'm focused with nobody bothering me, in a flow state.

I am at my worst when...

I'm carrying a lot of stress and I don't like the people around me.

Created with the FranklinCovey Mission Statement Builder https://msb.franklincovey.com © Franklin Covey Co. All rights reserved.

Values & Principles

Our values and principles are the foundation of our character, contributions, and achievements. At the very center of our Circle of Influence is where we deal with our vision and values. It is here that we make certain our paradigms are based on principles and reality. It is here that we create the end we desire, giving direction and purpose to our beginnings.

Conscience:

I need to make the following things a priority:

To me: health, happiness, energy and money.

Influence:

These are the people, and their attribute, that I hope to emulate:

David Laid

David Goggins

Jeff Seid

Balance:

These are the things that I can do in each dimension of my life to achieve a sense of balance:

Physical

Working out

Social/Emotional

Socializing more

Mental

Meditating

Spiritual

Praying

You've discovered your mission, but that doesn't mean your work stops here.

We encourage you to reflect on your mission statement each day to make choices, set goals, and prioritize. Continue to write and revise as you go to make sure you stay on target with your mission.

Created with the FranklinCovey Mission Statement Builder https://msb.franklincovey.com © Franklin Covey Co. All rights reserved.